

BROWN ALUMNI MONTHLY

 1930 - 1931 ***

A College education for your child, figured on to-day's basis, will cost $6000 -- an average of $1500 a year.

How are you planning to meet this expense, out of your current income at that time or by easy stages spread over the previous years from your boy's childhood until he is 18?

Bankers, investment, professional and leading business men have selected the Puritan Child's Educational Fund Contract as the best means of creating the fund for their children's education. It is a superlative plan.

A Few Minutes May Be Worth Thousands of Dollars

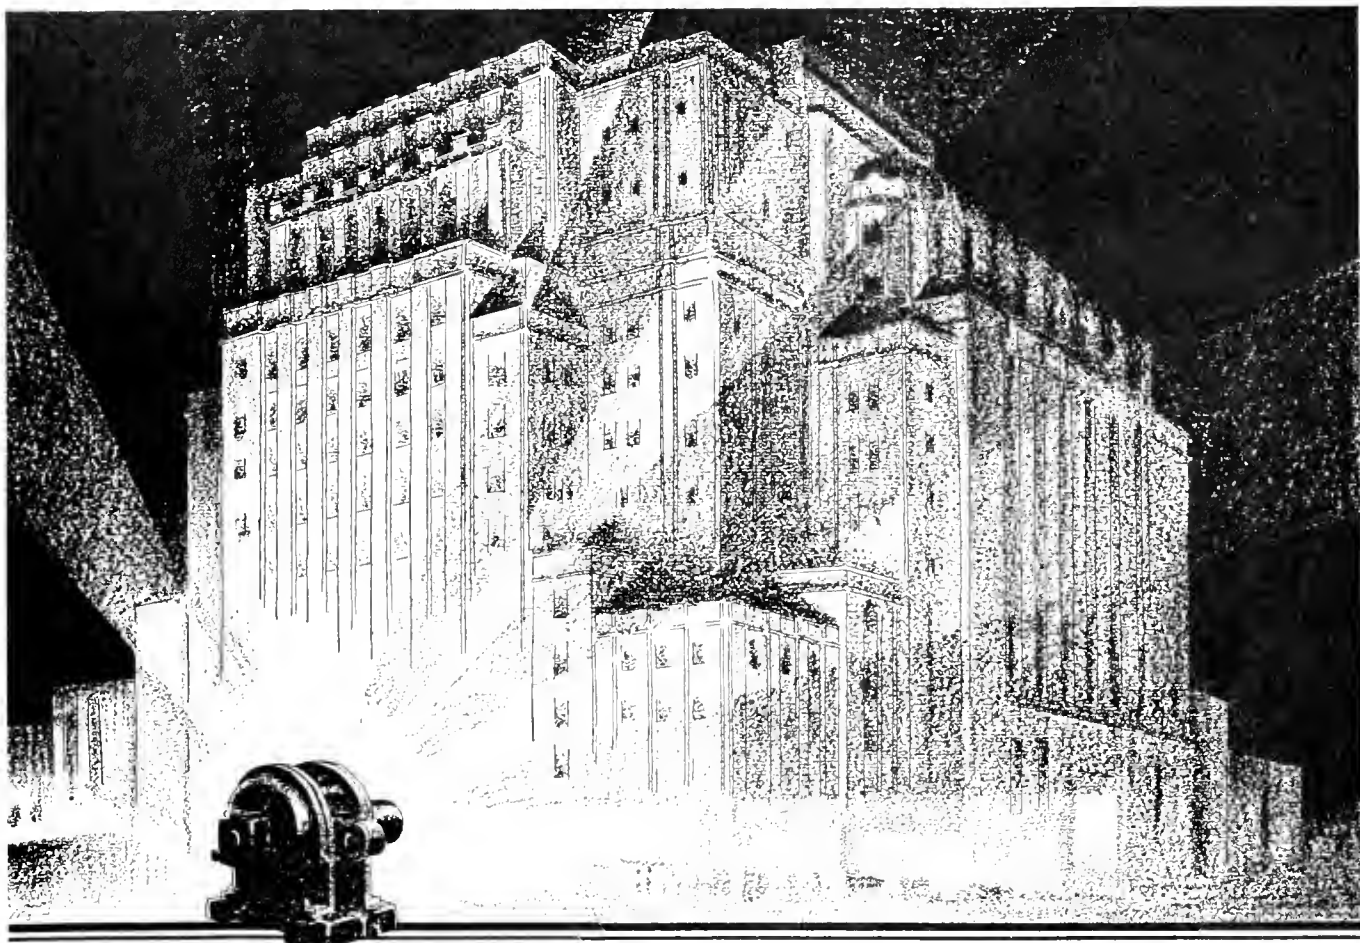

If you are carrying Life Insurance, a few minutes of your time spent with our trust representative may save your beneficiaries, hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars. He will explain, in detail, a modern protective plan, the Life Insurance Trust, and show you exactly how it can be adapted to your insurance.

Remember, we have no insurance to sell, but simply offer this practical plan for safeguarding the proceeds of such insurance as you carry.

At least, send for our booklet, "Protecting Your Life Insurance for Your Family," which gives an interesting outline of this service.

BONES OF STEEL NERVES OF ELECTRICITY

THE MODERN skyscraper eats electricity and breathes power. Its bones are of steel . . . its arteries and nerves are electric wires. Its heart is the substation below the street level, through which flows electric power to light and ventilate its acres of floor space, to lift its swift, silent elevators, and to paint its soaring contours with floodlights.

Although the electric equipment is but a small part of the cost of a building, it is one of the architect's major tools. For he thinks in terms of service to tenants, earning power for the owner, and beauty to the community. He uses electricity to make the building live.

General Electric serves the architect by supplying every element of electric equipment and accepting responsibility for its successful performance. On anything electrical, whether designed for skyscrapers, homes, or factories, the G-E monogram is a safe guide to dependability.

FOR THE HOME: Millions of American homes are made happier and more comfortable by electric appliances bearing the G-E monogram. These include refrigerators, radio sets, fans, vacuum cleaners; motors for many other electrically driven household devices; MAZDA lamps, wiring systems, and Sunlamps; Hot-point electric ranges and appliances.

FOR INDUSTRY: G-E research and engineering have made important contributions to every basic industry, including apparatus for generating, transmitting, and applying electricity; electric furnaces and heating devices; street, traffic, airport, and Cooper Hewitt lights; Victor X-ray apparatus; equipment for railroad and marine electrification, and for street railways.

A Tribute to Dean Mason

A week ago this morning I spoke to you of the tragic death of Ivan F. Bentley of the class of 1934. Before me on the desk as I spoke lay a report concerning the tragedy, written by Dean Mason, the last report which ever came to my desk from him. It is before me now and bears the marks of his clear analysis and careful attention to details. Only a week ago yesterday he and Professor Kenerson attended the funeral of Mr. Bentley in Taunton. Probably Professor Kenerson was the last member of the Faculty who had any extended conversation with Dean Mason. He tells me that Dean Mason was in good spirits, showing no sign whatever of present or approaching illness. Strangely enough as they came from the funeral service, the sight of some old people caused the conversation to turn in the direction of length of life, and Dean Mason, speaking of the fact that his own father had lived to the age of eighty-four, said that with our pressure of living there was no real likelihood that most of us would retain our faculties until such an age, and that he hoped that the end would come for him before the faculties began to fail. He little knew that he was within forty-eight hours of the end of earthly life. The conversation turned upon the funeral service which they had just attended, and Dean

Mason expressed his preference for a brief and simple service, whether like that which he had just attended or in contrast to it, I do not know. He left Professor Kenerson about 4:30 with no intimation on the part of either of what was impending. You are perhaps familiar with the fact that he was not well that evening, but that nothing of special danger was realized until the following morning when the disease which took him from us struck him with appalling force. In a little more than twenty-four hours he had gone from us; and already it is four days since we laid his body to rest on a slope overlooking the river.

With a heart full of sorrow and a great sense of the loss which has come to Brown University and to all of us as individuals, I am speaking this word today. No man could be more missed from this campus. No man knew the student body as did he. Every member of the four classes of undergraduates now in our student body had come into personal contact with him. That can be said of no one else. He knew your records of the preparatory school days; he followed each one of you with the most intense and kindly interest. He was firm, sagacious and kind. Every student was to him an individual with his own heredity, his own environment, his own temptations, victories, defeats, joys and sorrows.

I doubt if there ever was a better administrative officer in his field. If I desired for any reason to have an estimate of any student, there would come down to my desk within a very few minutes a statement so concise and yet so detailed, so sane and well-poised and vivid, that the personality of the student seemed to stand out from the typewritten page. No one was likely to deceive him to any considerable extent; no one could impose upon him, and certainly no one could intimidate him. He was strong, brave and friendly.

May I commend to your reading, if you have not already read it, a column in the "Brown Daily Herald" of last Monday, November 3rd, to my mind one of the most beautiful bits of writing which has appeared in the "Herald" during the current year. I refer to the article headed "Speaking Offhand. K. O. M.," and signed by Winfield Scott of the Senior class. I have read it several times with a clutch at my heart and with moistened eyes. Scott carries us with him when he says, "It's odd how little words can do at times. You think of Dean Mason, for instance, and you think: sympathy, understanding, rare humor and wit, keen intelligence, friendliness, the best sort of Dean: a teacher as well as an administrator. And so on. But somehow you don't get very far. Say them all over again, add: honesty, intellectual power, laconic style. And still you don't get very far. The fact is you can't say the whole story."

And none of us can say the whole story. We shall not forget him. Life is richer and always will be richer because we knew him. Life is poorer and always will be poorer because he has gone. It was only a few days ago that there was to be a meeting of a Faculty Committee. Dean Mason came into my office and said, "One of the boys is in difficulty," and then he told me about some foolish thing which he had done, a thing which he, himself, now deeply regrets, and the Dean said, "I think I will run down into the country to see the boy's father, if you will excuse me from the meeting. Perhaps

I can do more good there than I could here." It was like him. He was always doing those kindly, helpful things. His life was in the students of Brown and in the comradeship of his colleagues.

We laid him away last Saturday on a day which is designated in the calendar of the church year as All Saints' Day. Dean Mason was no cloistered saint, no recluse. He lived out in the open where the sun shines and the winds blow, but in very truth, with the right kind of definition of sainthood there was something fitting in the fact that he was buried on All Saints' Day. With all his humor and power of contact with the personalities of other men, he was deeply religious, and talking with him alone from time to time I found that there was something of the mystic in him. He believed in the power of the unseen. For him, after all, the things that were seen were temporal. The things which were unseen were eternal. Without affectation he lived in his heart the life of a deeply religious man. He had learned life's two great lessons: how to live with God, and how to live with men.

As I have thought of him there have come to me Riley's lines:

"I can not say, and I will not say
That he is dead.—He is just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,

He has wandered into an unknown land,

And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.

And you—O you, who the wildest yearn

For the old-time step and the glad return—

Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here;

Think of him still as the same, I say:
He is not dead—he is just away!"

Dean Mason was born in Pawtucket, R. I., April 12, 1893, the son of Daniel Wilbur and Adeline (Hood) Mason. He prepared at the Pawtucket High School and received his A. B. and A. M. degrees from Brown in 1914, with English literature as his major subject. He continued his study of English at Harvard, where he won another A. M. in 1915. He was instructor in English at the University of Vermont, 1916-17, and had been a member of the Brown Faculty since September, 1917.

He was successively assistant, instructor, assistant professor and associate professor of English. In March, 1926, following the resignation of Dean W. R. Burwell, '15, he was named Dean of Freshmen. Then followed his appointment as Director of Admissions, and in this capacity he worked out new methods for measuring applicants, secured the co-operation of alumni throughout the country and was beginning to be known far beyond the limits of College Hill as an admissions officer of the first rank. In his dealings with undergraduates he had the reputation of being straightforward, blunt and always fair.

Dean Mason was married Dec. 22, 1919, to Miss Mildred W. Cole, who survives him, together with a sister, Frances H. Mason, Pembroke, '26. Dean Mason was a member of the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the American Association of University Professors, Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Phi Epsilon. With Professors W. T. Hastings and B. C. Clough he was co-author of a volume of short stories for classroom use, published in 1924.

The Death of Dean Mason

In the death of Kenneth Oliver Mason, Dean of Freshmen and Director of Admissions, Brown University has suffered a grievous loss. Who would have supposed that the youngest of our administrative officers would be the first to pass away? Yet at the early age of thirty-seven he is taken from us.

The comment has come to us from various quarters that the Freshman Class of 1934 makes a particularly creditable appearance. For this specific improvement "Ken" Mason was largely responsible. He was the heart and centre of the new movement for a better selective system at Brown, and had gone far toward the development of a satisfactory scheme of admission. He had a great grasp of facts, an excellent memory, firmness and judgment, along with courtesy and consideration. The writer had a series of personal interviews with him during the last year or two that convinced him that Mason was the man for his job and that he was "on" the job.

The best proof the university can give of its appreciation of what he did for it is to go straight ahead with the business of selecting students with the care that has lately been put into the task. As the Alumni Monthly said when Dr. Barbour's election as President was announced and the new administration was about to square away on its history-making voyage, the one great desideratum at Brown was (and it still is) the laying of stress on quality. Kenneth Mason did his full share in this direction. Let his successor, whoever he may turn out to be, follow faithfully in his footsteps.

Providence Students Who Go Elsewhere

It would be foolish to shut our eyes to the fact that too many students of college age whose homes are in Providence go away from this city for their collegiate education. To point out that every college town suffers from a similar tendency is scant comfort. We have from time to time called attention in these pages to the fact that the fraternities at Yale elect an extremely small proportion of their members nowadays from among the New Haven contingent of students, a fact which seems to show that most of the New Haven boys whom these fraternities would naturally select are "giving Yale the go-by." On the other hand we know a first-rate Yale undergraduate who lives in a New England "country-college town," and we understand that a good many boys from what used to be called Harvard territory emigrate to Dartmouth. We certainly get some fine fellows at Brown from localities that have creditable colleges of their own, but nevertheless too little is being done to keep Providence boys in Providence.

The university administration, it has long seemed to us, ought to have a definite and vigorous program for holding on to these young men. Something could be done by personal contact with them and with their parents, especially where the latter are either Brown men or women. Happily there are a good many members of the present undergraduate body who are the sons of Brown graduates and some of these have their homes in Providence, but the proportion is altogether too small. It will be a fortunate day for the university when the current that has set away from us is checked and boys are cured of the notion that the one chief advantage of a college education is to secure it away from home. They should remember that in many or most cases they have their lives to live in the city that they thus reject for four years, and that by going away during this impressionable period they fail to establish ties here in their own community that they will be sorry, in years to come, to miss.

Brown College?

When the agitation was at its height two or three years ago that led to the changing of the name of the Women's College in Brown University to Pembroke College in Brown University, it was argued, first, that the women's institution deserved a distinctive name of its own and, second, that the men's college deserved to have it thus set off with a distinguishing title. Both arguments had their proper weight. It was, indeed, embarrassing to write (with capital initials) of the Women's College and in the same sentence (without initials) of the men's college. Yet that was the proper way of expressing ourselves, for the first institution had at least its own formal name and the latter did not. And it has no distinctive designation today. We have Pembroke College, the Graduate School and the men's college, which latter surely needs a separate title and has needed one ever since the Women's College made Brown University too vague a designation for the integral institution devoted to undergraduate men.

We have no suggestion to make beyond the rather obvious one of Brown College. Has anybody a better one? Perhaps the authorities have given due thought to the matter. If so, what conclusion have they reached?

We have Pembroke College in Brown University. Why not Brown College in Brown University? Is not this the device by which Yale has met a similar situation? And Harvard also?

Lincoln Painting Acquired

The Lincoln Collection at Brown has recently been enriched by the gift of Alonzo Chappel's remarkable historic painting of the closing hours of Abraham Lincoln. The more familiar deathbed scene of Lincoln where only 26 other persons are present was painted by A. H. Ritchie. In Chappel's painting 46 other persons are present. These include Lincoln's secretary, the later Secretary of State, John Hay.

The artist was a historical painter of note in his day, and in this work, which was reproduced in the Art-gravure Section of the Providence Journal on Sunday, Nov. 16, has shown a very high degree of art, particularly in the portrayal of the faces. The head of Lincoln as it lies on the pillow is fine and noble.

Final Honors

The Committee on Academic Honors announces that 94 undergraduate upperclassmen are candidates for Final Honors. Of these 44 are members of the class of 1931 while 50 are in the class of 1932. Premedical Sciences is the most popular field with 22 men concentrating in this department. Economics is second with 17 men, while the Department of English claims third with 11 students.

A Visitor from France

Professor Paul Hazard of the College de France, Paris, one of the most distinguished scholars and critics of Europe, visited Brown on Nov. 7 and 8 by invitation of Professor Horatio E. Smith and was the guest of the Department of Romance Languages while here. He gave a public lecture before a large audience of members of the University and of Providence people on "The French of 1930." He also met the advanced students, undergraduates and graduates, and the members of the staff in the Department of Romance Languages and spoke to them on problems connected with the study of Comparative Literature (Professor Hazard is editor of the internationally known Revue de Litterature Comparee). It was also made possible for M. Hazard to confer with certain advanced students concerning the details of their investigations.

Faculty Endorses Report

The Brown Faculty, at its November meeting, recorded itself as being unanimously in support of the survey of the University made last spring and summer by Chancellor Capen of the University of Buffalo, Dean Eisenhart of Princeton and Dean Ford of the Graduate School, University of Minnesota. The following votes were passed:

"That there be conveyed to the distinguished educators, who so generously served as a Survey Committee, an expression of the Faculty's appreciation of the very careful and fair investigation and illuminating report of the Committee, together with assurance that the Faculty will use their earnest endeavors to put into effect the helpful recommendations made in this report.

"That the Faculty place on record an expression of the hearty agreement with the general tenor of the report of the committee of educators invited by the Corporation to make a survey of the University and an appraisal of its program of educational policy."

The Faculty also expressed its appreciation of the prompt receipt of copies of the report.

Next Commencement Day

It is not too soon to have in mind plans for the next Commencement season and particularly Commencement Day.

At the present time a too-great diversity of practice attaches to this climactic period of the collegiate year. Naturally reunion classes wish to get together and to a great extent to stay together even when this requires holding aloof from the main Commencement throng. On the other hand, there are members of every reunion class who while enjoying the society of their classmates would appreciate the opportunity of mingling with the great body of alumni. How can these two desires be harmonized?

To take a single example, the writer's class (or rather, since we have no proprietary claim upon it, the class to which the writer is honored to belong) held an all-too-brief reunion last June on Commencement Day. The committee came to the advance conclusion that the Old Boys were too old to care for a long trip down the bay or to a country club, or anything like that, and so arranged a mid-day luncheon within sight and sound of the ancient meeting-house. The result was a pleasant gathering, but one that interfered with the attendance of the members at the afternoon alumni session in Sayles Hall.

As opposed to the laying of exclusive emphasis on the class-reunion idea we should remember the important fact that many of us made many friendships in college outside of our own classes and that, in the last analysis, a class is more or less an artificial body. We yield to nobody in loyalty to Our Class, but a class is, after all, a company of young men who come together for the first time at the opening of their Freshman year and have not been chosen for their congeniality of taste, experience or tradition. We suppose there never was a class that did not develop lifelong friendships among its members, yet in the nature of things every class must contain members who have little in common except the bond of their class membership and their membership in the college.

Thus it is pleasant for the men of 1906, to take a single example—the first that comes to mind—to mingle at Commencement time with the men of 1905 and 1907, and vice versa. To this end, a general meeting place and time are requisite; and offhand we should say that it would be worthwhile for everyone interested to consider the matter and see what can be done next June to bring the whole university family into closer contact.

Brown in-Smithfield

Brown University soon will have title to a 100-acre tract of land in the Spragueville section of Smithfield, where a year-round camp reservation will be maintained for members of the student body and instructors at the college.

The camp will have several cabins and lodges where even in the winter students and teachers may enjoy a retreat from college activities for a day or week-end. Use of the reservation by individual students will be subject always to approval of a board of governors, representing the administration.

Located on the tract is a 20-acre pond for bathing and fishing in warm weather, and skating in the winter. The facilities to be provided for relaxation will be available for use by academic clubs, such as the Chemistry and Mathematics Clubs, the Brown Christian Association and other organizations desiring to spend a day or more in some spot off the campus.

During the period before the opening of college when entering Freshmen are being oriented, groups may be taken to the reservation.

Sixty acres have been acquired by the university already, and assurance of acceptance of terms offered for 40 more acres has been given the college purchasing committee by the present owners.

The tract, bought of Michael Connetta and other parties, is located in Smithfield's highest area. It is within excellent view of Wolf Hill, where there is one of the State's frequently used bridle paths, and a favorite haunt of the mounted commands of the National Guard. To the south of the reservation is the village of Greenville. The State highway at Payette's corners, Spragueville, is less than two miles away.

For the past six years Brown students have been able to use the Kiwanis Reservation in Chepachet, but establishment of the new camp will provide a private reservation of their own. Students may engage cabins at the new reservation with the approval of the board of governors.

Notes of the Campus

As the result of a disturbance on the evening of Oct. 28 on Thayer Street, Dean Arnold announced a fortnight later the indefinite suspension of seven undergraduates and the placing of a number of others on college discipline.

Professor Percy H. Boynton of the University of Chicago has been delivering a special series of Colver Foundation lectures at Brown on "The American Pioneer in Fiction."

At the second university convocation of the year, Professor Chauncey B. Tinker of Yale was the speaker. His subject was: "The Point We Have Reached."

Galen C. (Doc) Noyes has opened the University Pharmacy at a new location on the east side of Thayer Street, opposite the old store, and in addition to his drug store and luncheonette service has opened an attractive mezzanine restaurant with the name of "Brown Gables."

R. B. Allen of Moorestown, N. J., has been elected captain of the 1934 soccer team.

Thanksgiving recess extended from 1:15 p. m., Wednesday, Nov. 26, to 8 a. m., Monday, December 1.

A Brown fencing team was formed, by a group of those interested in the sport, on Nov. 24.

The University and Freshman wrestling teams had their first practice of the season on Nov. 18.

Senior Frolic officers: Chairman, E. H. Hapgood; secretary-treasurer, W. E. S. Moulton; other committee members, R. S. Hall, J. A. Laadt and L. F. Demmler.

Professor Hugh S. Taylor of Princeton delivered a John Howard Appleton lecture at Brown, Nov. 20, on "Water Formation, a Fruitful Theme for Research."

The Brown Clubs Report

By A. H. Gurney, Alumni Secretary

PLANS for the annual meeting of the Advisory Council of the Associated Alumni, to be held in conjunction with Visiting Day in February, will be discussed at the next meeting of the Executive Committee, scheduled for the University Club, Providence, Friday evening, Dec. 12, at 6:30 o'clock. It will be a dinner meeting, with the Providence members acting as hosts to the men from out of town.

A letter to every Brown Club has been sent out from the Alumni Office to give notice that the terms of Clifford S. Anderson, '00, of Worcester, Mass., Alumni Trustee (Baptist), and William C. Giles, '11, of Springfield, Mass., alumni member of the Athletic Council, will expire next June. Under the rules, neither is eligible for renomination until after the lapse of a year; and each Brown Club will have opportunity to suggest candidates. Both Messrs. Anderson and Giles have done commendable work, and all alumni may well be grateful to them for their services, cheerfully and intelligently given.

The Executive Committee, at its November meeting, named Henry S. Chafee, '09, and Alfred B. Lemon, '13, to serve another year as alumni members of the Committee on Commencement, and chose Dr. Emery M. Porter, '06, President Schwartz of the Associated Alumni and President Lemon of the Brown Club of Providence to serve on the Consultation Committee, which is a connecting link between the Corporation and the Associated Alumni.

Brown Engineers

Not even the rain and fog could dampen the enthusiasm manifest at the third annual Providence dinner of the Brown Engineering Association, held at the Faculty Club, Saturday evening, Nov. 15. Approximately 80 members were present; the dinner was an excellent one; and all of the arrangements were a credit to Professor Samuel J. Berard and his committee. The speaker was Dean Emeritus Otis E. Randall, '84, who told of his sabbatic year abroad, and the guests included Dr. A. D. Mead, vice president of the University, representing President Barbour, Dean R. G. D. Richardson of the Graduate School, Dean Samuel T. Arnold, A. H. Gurney, Alumni Secretary.

The guests were on the program, together with Professor W. H. Kershner, '96, who introduced the officers of the undergraduate branch of the Engineering Association, Rudolf Brunner, an engineer from Zurich, Switzerland, who described hydroelectric development in his country, and H. A. Smith, '30, whose sleight-of-hand tricks were a joy to watch. Earl W. Harrington, '14, of New York, presided, and G. H. Stannard, '15, was his happy and amusing self as toastmaster. Secretary-Treasurer Wayne M. Faunce, '21, of New York was also present to give a brief report of the status of the association.

Most of the engineers attended the Brown-Columbia game in the afternoon and then returned to the campus to inspect the engineering laboratories and to meet the members of the engineering Faculty.

Chicago

Two events stand out on the fall and winter program of the Brown Club of Chicago. One, the visit by Dean R. G. D. Richardson of the Graduate School, is a pleasant memory; the other, the annual banquet, is all set for Friday, Dec. 26, at the Drake Hotel, with Dean Samuel T. Arnold as the principal speaker.

Dean Richardson was the guest of the Chicago Club at luncheon on Friday, Oct. 31, at a special meeting held for discussing the recent survey made at the University. More than twenty members filled the club's regular luncheon room in the Marshall Field Men's Grill and listened with interest to the Dean's remarks on this vital subject.

A distinct shadow was cast over the affair, however, because the morning newspapers brought news of Dean Kenneth O. Mason's death. The news was a great shock to all. A telegram was immediately sent to The Brown Daily Herald, reading as follows: "Brown Alumni of Chicago extend to the family of Kenneth O. Mason and to the University their deepest sympathy for a loss that is irreparable."

Before giving his talk on the survey, Dean Richardson spoke feelingly of Dean Mason and the remarkable work Mason had done for Brown. The Dean's talk, greatly informative, was followed by many questions from his auditors—questions that dealt with several matters other than the survey itself. It was a pleasure to have Dean Richardson as a guest during his stop in Chicago on the way home from Berkeley, Calif., where he represented Brown at the inauguration of Dr. Sproul as president of the University of California.

On the Friday before the Brown-Yale game a small group of alumni decided that the game could not go on without having a play-by-play account of it. So arrangements were quickly made, with the result that a number of the alumni met Saturday noon, Oct. 18, at the Allerton House, where luncheon was served as a telegraph key ticked off the play-by-play reports from the Yale Bowl. A local radio station and the morning newspapers helped considerably in spreading the word around. All present groaned noticeably at Booth's rejuvenation at the expense of Brown.

Although the Brown Club holds weekly luncheons (Fridays), the majority of the members are looking forward to Friday evening, Dec. 26, when the club's annual banquet will be held. President J. J. McKenna, '04, and his committee are giving thought and effort to make this year's affair a real occasion.

The banquet, with the Drake Hotel as the scene, will have several surprising features. The visit to Chicago of the leading speaker, the popular Dean Arnold, is being keenly anticipated by many alumni who are anxious to renew a pleasant undergraduate acquaintanceship with him.

This affair is going to emphasize Brown and Brown affairs and every address will come in the University. For this reason all alumni in the Chicago territory are urged to hold open Friday, Dec. 26, for the annual banquet, which is expected to attract more than a hundred and fifty persons.

Syracuse

A prophet may be without honor in his own country, but one must take off one's hat to William Allan Dyer, '86, for his prophecy over the radio the night before the Brown-Syracuse game. He said:

"Frankly, I look for one of the best football games tomorrow that I have ever seen, with plenty of hair-raising, exciting moments and thrill after thrill, with perhaps at the end a perfect stalemate. But if the latter occurs, it will be only after 22 of the finest young men any two American colleges can produce have given their utmost efforts."

The game is history now, and Brown prestige in the Central New York sector has increased greatly as a result. "When Brown finally got going," one of our correspondents wrote, "they went so fast that Syracuse had little time to think, much less get ready, and Gurll's final kick was a piece of work that one sees only once in a generation.

"The Brown Band won all kinds of praise . . . It was an inspiration to the team and it got a great hand from both sides of the Stadium. The Syracuse Athletic Council made a nice gesture of friendliness in inviting the Band to be its guest at Saturday luncheon . . . Immediately at the close of the game the Brown stand stood while the Band played and the alumni sang "Alma Mater" in memory of Dean Mason. This was commented upon by many as a fine tribute.

"In the evening the Band gave a concert at the University Club, which is Brown headquarters. The concert was a graceful bit of courtesy by the Band to Syracuse."

The whole Brown-Syracuse affair represented excellent initiative on the part of the Syracuse group and just as excellent cooperation by the Brown clubs in Buffalo (through Elton Gosselyn), in Rochester (through F. W. Holmes and George H. Hume), and in Albany (Schenectady) (through George Campbell and others). The Syracuse group is planning to have monthly luncheon meetings during the winter.

New York

The annual dinner of the Brown University Club in New York will take place at the Hotel Astor, Thursday evening, Dec. 11. Everett Colby, '07, chairman of the dinner committee, announces that former Governor F. C. Stokes, '83, of New Jersey, will be toastmaster and that the speakers will be Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, Raymond B. Fordick, one-time secretary-general of the League of Nations, Charles E. Hughes, Jr., '00, and A. B. Bainbridge.

In addition to the speakers the committee, so Don Ball reports, is contemplating an informal Glee Club presentation, the singers to be former members of the University glee clubs.

Brown men everywhere will be interested to learn of the success of the Thursday luncheon idea, which came into being this fall. The luncheons are held at the Hotel Wentworth, 59 West 46th St., every Thursday, and the slogan is: "Get the Brown Club Luncheon Habit—Make Thursday a 'Brown Letter Day' on Your Calendar." Through the medium of the Alumni Monthly the club officers extend a hearty invitation to all Brown men to join at the luncheon tables whenever they are in New York.

The latest advices say that "each week finds from 50 to 75 enthusiastic brown men meeting around the luncheon table to re-establish college contacts, renew friendships formed on the Hill, and participate in the interest and activity which the Brown Club here in New York is promoting in the metropolitan area."

Los Angeles

A large number of alumni in Los Angeles and neighborhood gathered at a dinner meeting at the Alexandria Hotel Monday evening, Oct. 20, to meet and hear Dean R. G. D. Richardson of the Graduate School. Dean Richardson, on his way from College Hill to Berkeley to attend the inauguration of Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul as president of the University of California, was kind enough to stop off at Los Angeles at the invitation of the Brown Club of Southern California, and his visit was a thoroughly enjoyable one.

In his address before the club he brought the latest news of events at the University and of the welfare and activities of faculty members whom local alumni have not seen since they left the East. The main topic of his talk was the survey of Brown recently made, and he quoted interestingly from the report of the committee on the survey, Dean Eisenhart of Princeton, Chancellor Capen of the University of Buffalo and Dean Ford of the Graduate School, University of Minnesota. After the talk Dean Richardson answered many questions from the members and there ensued a general discussion of the survey and of Brown educational policies.

This visit from a prominent member of the faculty proved stimulating and refreshing to this distant group of alumni, and we are hoping for similar occasions during the present academic year.—L. L. L.

Reunion Section

ON the invitation of Dr. Bumpus, Secretary of the Corporation, a meeting of the representatives of the reunion classes was held at the Hope Club on the evening of October 24.

At this meeting the opinion was expressed that if the class lists brought up to date were published in the Alumni Monthly, the work of those having the preliminary arrangements in charge would be materially furthered. It was suggested that a section of the publication might be set apart and used for the insertion of such news items, prospective plans, general information, etc., as might be of interest to those preparing for this home-coming event. The following were appointed members of an interclass committee on general arrangements: Brenton G. Smith, '11, Eliot G. Parkhurst, '06, and Henry C. Hart, '01.

The Monthly is accordingly issuing this supplement and trusts that members of the respective reunion classes will send the Alumni Secretary such items as they feel will prove of interest.

Brown Interests of All Sorts

Intramural Athletics at Brown

1929 - 1930

By Professor Leslie E. Swain

A certain theological professor's customary final admonition to his graduating class was, "Be careless of your life, but be careful of your health." Can there be a much finer formula for a truly successful career? We are trying in a practical way through intramural athletics to get our students to take care of their health now by pleasurable exercise in the hope that a liking for sports and a certain degree of ability in them may carry over into after-college life and may be of assistance to them toward always being careful of their health in a sane way. Only so can "carelessness of life" be productive in the highest degree throughout a long period of years.

Very few students find all their sport interest in Varsity athletics alone, a few men only being members of three different teams, comparatively few members of two different teams. This leaves one or two seasons per year when the Varsity athlete may easily loaf to his own physical detriment. A large percentage of the student body are not possessed of sufficient ability to make even one Varsity team and have only the Intramurals to incite to recreative exercise. These athletic activities within our own walls are sufficiently appreciated so that over half of our total enrolment participated during '29-'30.

Our figures show about an eight per cent increase over the previous year in individual participation times. There is possible statistically no exact comparison between the spontaneous interest for the season of '29-'30 and that for previous years, but those of us in close contact with the organization know that never before was there such spirit throughout the greater part of the time. Fall tennis, touch-football, basketball, swimming, track, the Novice Championships, and handball all showed gains in the number of participating individuals and in the number of times of participation. Another way in which the increased interest manifests itself is the gain of about 10 per cent in the total points scored by the fraternities in the Lanpher Cup competition.

One advance step taken by the Brown University Athletic Council which is greatly deserved by the recipients is the awarding of sweaters to Intramural managers who obtain at least 75 per cent total competition in all branches of sports offered by the department during their year's supervision for their group. Last season five Fraternity and three Club managers won the new insignia for the first time and will receive gray sweaters on which will be a brown "B" enclosed by a brown circle—very appropriate for work on these sports within the walls of Brown.

The following are the successful managers with their percentages:

F. E. Bailey, '32, of Phi Sigma Kappa	80.0%
J. B. Chaffee, '31, of Beta Theta Pi	84.0%
J. C. Gillies, '31, of Alpha Delta Phi	80.1%
A. Horvitz, '32, of Wm. T. Peck Club	82.0%
J. E. McFadden, '30, of Phi Kappa Psi	81.5%
A. W. Rougvie, Jr., '32, of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Club	82.5%
W. M. Winn, '31, of Geo. L. Littlefield Club	77.1%
J. G. Wright, '31, of Delta Tau Delta	78.0%

After a lapse of one year Zeta Psi has again won the Lanpher Cup. It held third place last year. Phi Kappa Psi is runner-up, as it also was last year. Delta Upsilon, holder of the cup last year, came in third this year. The final scores with points made by each fraternity in each sport follow:

The group winners for the year in the various sports are as follows:

Touch-Football

Fraternity—Phi Kappa Psi

Club—Geo. L. Littlefield Club

Basketball

Fraternity—Zeta Psi

Club—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Club

Swimming

Fraternity—Zeta Psi

Club—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Club

Track

Fraternity—Zeta Psi

Club—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Club

Baseball

Fraternity—Sigma Chi

Club—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Club

The Novice Championships gave opportunity to some students who had not been successful winners previously to fight it out between themselves. Boxing and Wrestling had their first chance to show their worth here.

The Interclass games, sponsored by the Cannarian Club, were won by the Freshmen with 67½ points to the Sophomores' 37½.

W. F. Huse, '31, present captain of track, won the "Doc" Caples 880-yard first prize cup for the third consecutive year.

Our policy of forming Independent Clubs on the basis of friendship rather than on any arbitrary system of grouping has given hopeful results after a full year's tryout. Four clubs became quite firmly organized, six others were more or less established. With such a large percentage of the students, especially the Freshmen, living off the campus, this task of proper organization is not yet fully solved at Brown, nor, as far as we know, in any college with a similar situation.

After three years of competition for the Lanpher Cup it may be of interest for alumni to see where their fraternity stands. By giving each its place number and then adding these as is done in figuring a cross country score, we get the following results:

	'27-'28 Place	'28-'29 Place	'29-'30 Place	Final Score Place

Sports at Brown

BY LOUIS B. PALMER, 1928

Brown 16, Syracuse 16

Waging one of the greatest uphill fights ever fought by any Brown team, Brown came from behind to gloriously tie Syracuse University at Syracuse on November 1. The score is in itself not indicative of the closeness of the game, and the story seems almost too good to be true.

Something happened to the Bruins in the first period. Maybe it was the cold (snow covered the gridiron and the going was treacherous); maybe it was stage fright; or perhaps it was just that Syracuse capitalized its opportunities so quickly that the Bears didn't quite know what it was all about. At all events, the fact remains that the Orangemen scored two touchdowns, a point after one of them, and Stevens booted a field goal, and the score at the end of the first quarter stood Syracuse 16, Brown 0.

At this point Coach McLaughry injected "Dusky Joe" Mahood into the game, and with Fogarty and Mahood alternating, Brown carried the ball to within scoring distance, where Fogarty heaved a nice pass to Mahood for the first score. Gurll missed the point after touchdown. That ended the scoring for the first half, but the Bruins were not to be denied, and in the third quarter Finkie Gurll scored the second touchdown and this time kicked the goal, making the score 16-13, with Brown on the short end.

Neither team could do much after this, and it looked as though Syracuse would be the winner. In fact many of the spectators, half-frozen by this time, had already left the stands. But Brown pushed steadily on, until they reached Syracuse's twenty yard line, where the home team held. On the fourth down, and what proved to be the last play of the game, the ever reliable Finkie Gurll dropped back to his own twenty-eight yard line and sent a perfect drop-kick between the uprights for three points and a tie. When one considers that the ball was kicked from a point only four yards inside the field, and traveled on a difficult angle, the feat seems all the more remarkable.

All in all, Brown gained 13 first downs to their opponents' 11, and outrushed Syracuse in every period but the first, the Orange never even threatening after that time. The work of Gurll, Ferrebee, Schein, Mackesey and Mahood for Brown, and that of Ellert, Stevens and Tymas of Syracuse was outstanding.

Brown 32, Tufts 7

Tufts has usually been a thorn in the side of the Bruin, but this year was weaker than usual, with the result that Coach Staff, in charge while McLaughry was in New York at the Colgate-Columbia game, was able to use every man on the squad, down to the last substitute, and put in his first string only after Tufts had scored a touchdown.

Brown started a team composed of Morey and Munroe, ends, Letoile and Brickley, tackles, Spellman and Walker, guards, Wiley, centre, Harris, quarter, Bill Gilbane and Gilmartin, halves, and Gammino, fullback. This team scored once in the first quarter, Gilmartin carrying the ball, but when Tufts, with Lecain carrying most of the work, scored, Staff yanked all of them but Gilbane, and put in ten of his regulars. Lee Marshall scored in the second period, and at the end of the half the score stood 13-7 in favor of Brown.

An entirely different combination started the second half, and with the coaches making frequent substitutions, Brown scored three more times to make the total 32, at the same time keeping Tufts far from the University's own goal. The work of Bill Gilbane, Gammino and Harris in the backfield, and that of Johnson in the line was outstanding. However, the game was costly to Brown, as Johnson tore a ligament in his knee, incapacitating him for the remainder of the season, and leaving McLaughry with but two experienced ends.

Brown 6, Columbia 0

What was presaged as an easy Brown victory, due to Columbia's crushing defeat at the hands of Colgate the week previously, turned out to be a real battle, and although obviously the better team, Brown was very, very glad to eke out a single touchdown victory. The game, which was staged on Aldrich Field on November 15, was played in a pea-soup fog and drizzle, on a grid-iron already soaked by an all-night rain. In spite of the inclement weather, nearly 10,000 fans witnessed the game.

After each team had tried the other's line, and found it impossible to make any headway that way, the game developed into a punting duel. Neither team came within scoring distance in the first half, although Brown completed a long pass, Fogarty to Marshall, that was good for about forty yards just as the half ended. However, things began to happen in the third period, and it seemed only a matter of time before Brown could score. The Columbia line held gloriously, though, and although Brown completed several passes, and Chase consistently outpunted his opponent, the end of the third quarter still showed no score. But in the final period the break came, fortunately, for the Bruins.

Chase had kicked far down towards the north goal, and after an exchange of punts, Brown took the ball on Columbia's thirty-five yard line. From here the Bruins worked the ball to the twenty-five, with last down and about six to go. Once again the clever Finkie Gurll showed his resourcefulness, and called for a pass. Bob Chase dropped back, and heaved the ball to Kent Allen, reserve end, who caught it on the six-yard stripe, and on the next play Chase took it over for the only score of the game. Twice more Brown seemed on its way to score, only to be called back and penalized for holding. Although some of the penalties were obviously fair, both teams were handicapped by what seemed to be over-zealousness on the part of the officials, Brown being penalized 110 yards, and Columbia 50.

Columbia played without the services of its star backfield men, Hewitt and Rivero, but played extremely well and hard, the work of McDuffie, Edling, Ganzle and Stan-czyk being exceptional. Bob Chase was Brown's shining light, his punting being especially good, while Finkie Gurll, Paul Mackesey, Joe Schein and Tom Sawyer played brilliantly, the down-field work of Mackesey and Sawyer being a pleasure to watch.

New Hampshire 7, Brown 0

In one of the biggest upsets of the current football season, Brown bowed before the University of New Hampshire on Aldrich Field, Nov. 22. The game was supposed to have been in the nature of a breather for Brown before the annual Colgate battle on Thanksgiving Day, but after spotting their opponents a touchdown in the first period, try as they might the Bruins could not score.

Once again Coach McLaughry chose to start his second team, as he had against Tufts, but this time he kept them in too long. After Brown had gotten down to New Hampshire's five-yard line, only to lose the ball on downs, the scrappy Durham team began a ninety-five yard march down the field, with Elizabeth and Eustis carrying the ball, Eustis eventually scoring the touchdown. Jim Slack, Wildcat quarterback, added the extra point. At this stage in the game McLaughry rushed in his regulars, but all to no avail.

Time and again the Bears were within scoring distance, only to be held for downs, or forced to surrender the ball by kicking. Brown reached the Wildcats' three-yard line on the last play of the game, and Capt. Fogarty, whose passing had been fine all afternoon, heaved a beautiful pass right into the arms of Bill Gilbane, standing over the goal line, only to have him drop it, and with it lose Brown's chances for a tie. Brown was outsmarted and out-fought, and it was as fine a victory for New Hampshire as it was a bitter pill for the McLaughry-coached outfit.

Eustis, Elizabeth, Hawks, Hanley and Theodos were brilliant for New Hampshire, while Capt. Fogarty, Edes, Sawyer and Rotelli were Brown's outstanding performers.

Colgate 27, Brown 0

Playing before 20,000 shivering spectators on Aldrich Field Thanksgiving morning, a strong Colgate team rolled over a stubborn Brown team for four touchdowns to win 27-0. Brown played without the services of its star quarterback, Finkie Gurll, who was out with a broken bone in his foot, and without Vahe Johnson, end, who also had been previously injured.

The score is not indicative of the great fight the Bruins put up, as they held the Maroon eleven to a single touchdown until the fourth quarter, and reached their opponent's fourteen, ten and seven yard lines three times in the third period, only to lack the necessary punch. Mackesey, Schein, Sawyer and Richardson played brilliantly for the home team, with the great Macaluso, leading scorer for the entire country, Capt. Hart, Terry, Abruzzino, and Orsi shining for Colgate.

Summary of the 1930 Football Season

After starting the season with a paucity of good backs, but with a strong line, Coach McLaughry succeeded in welding together a team which came through the hardest schedule in history in better than average fashion. Six victories—three against major opponents—three defeats and one tie is the final standing. Had it not been for the disappointing loss to New Hampshire State, the season might well have been classed as a success. Brown deserved to lose to Yale, and there is no doubt in anyone's mind that Colgate was a much superior team. Victories were registered over R. I. State's scrappy team, Worcester Poly, Princeton, Holy Cross, Tufts and Columbia, while the powerful Syracuse team was fought to a tie.

Brown will lose many valuable men by graduation, particularly in the line, but there should be many capable replacements from this year's reserves, and from the 1934 team. In the backfield Capt. Link Fogarty, Dave Edes, Fink Gurll, Lee Marshall and Joe Mahood all graduate, while in the line Kent Allen, John Gillies, Ernest Hapgood, Ken Henn, John Horton, Vahe Johnson, Ralph Richardson, Joe Schein and Oscar Schneider have all played their last game for Brown. To take their places there will be Dick Marsan, Andy Rotelli, Bob Chase, Ed Gilmartin, the Gilbanes, Jack Ferrebee, Tom Sawyer, Paul Mackesey, Sherman Wiley, Joe Buonnanno, Cappaso and Strand, to mention a few. All in all, the season has been very good, and perhaps, next year, with a little less strenuous schedule, the final results will be even more favorable.

Brown scored 135 points to its opponents' 78, gained 949 yards by rushing to its opponents' 917, and gained 268 by forward passing to its rivals' 186. Finkie Gurll's thirty-five yard drop kick to tie the score on the last play of the game was undoubtedly the outstanding performance by an individual during the season.

Notes

The Brown '34 team went down to defeat before a finely-drilled Roxbury School eleven on Aldrich Field, Nov. 20th. Roxbury scored in the first and third periods on touchdowns by Kaufman, with forward passes being completed for the extra points. The final score was 14-0, although the Bruin cubs nearly scored once in the third period.

The Varsity soccer team closed a none too successful season Saturday, Nov. 22 on Aldrich Field, losing to Springfield, 5-1. Brown's booters were no match for their opponents, the only Brown score being made by Red McGinn on a penalty kick.

The Brown soccer team has had only a fair season, probably due as much to the high calibre of the other teams as anything. The Bruin kickers have defeated Williams, 5-1, tied the strong Northeastern booters, 2-2, and lost to fair Harvard, 1-5. The 1934 team has fared little better, having as yet failed to break into the winning column.

It is interesting to note that there were 34 punts, and 24 forward passes in the Brown-Columbia game, and that, although the ball was slippery and sodden, it was fumbled but twice.

It seems that the supporters of Colgate are quite incensed at Columbia, as the Lions used but four regulars against the Maroon. The latter was not aware that Columbia had no intention of using her stars, and it was not until Colgate had run up thirty-three points that Coach Andy Kerr decided it was safe to use his reserves. The explanation seems to be that Lou Little decided he couldn't beat Colgate, but had a chance to beat Brown, and as Columbia and Colgate have broken off football relations, he thought it best to save his regulars, badly battered from previous games, for the contest at Providence. However, there is no doubt that Colgate would have won anyway, so—what of it?

Brunonians Far and Near

Faculty

Vice President A. D. Mead represented Brown at the 17th annual meeting of the Association of Urban Universities at the University of Pennsylvania on Nov. 6 and 7 and read a paper at the Nov. 7 session on "Community Service Through Research."

Professor R. C. Archibald of the Department of Mathematics will be a visiting lecturer in mathematics at Harvard next semester. He will go to Cambridge twice a week.

Professor Theofore Collier of the Department of History is giving a series of ten lectures on "Contemporary Politics in Europe" in Woonsocket under the auspices of the University Extension.

Professor R. B. Lindsay of the Physics Department is co-author of "Acoustics, a Text on Theory and Application," which has recently been published by D. Van Nostrand Co. Professor Lindsay spoke before the November meeting of the Rhode Island Section, American Chemical Society, on "Changing Concepts in Atomic Theory."

Professors A. Ford Hinrichs, William Adams Brown, Jr., and James H. Shoemaker of the Department of Economics told of their personal experiences in Russia at an open meeting of the Faculty Club at the clubhouse on Brown Street on Nov. 12. All of the speakers have been recent visitors to Russia.

Professor H. E. Farnsworth of the Physics Department, who spent the greater part of the summer on his research problem in Wilson Hall, published, with V. H. Goerke of the department, in the Physical Review of Oct. 1, 1930, an article entitled "Distinction Between Contact-Potential Effects and True Reflection Coefficients for Low Velocity Electrons."

Professor L. E. Swain of the Department of Physical Education spoke before the Plainfield Street Baptist Church, Providence, on Sunday, November 2 on "Prohibition and Our Youth." Professor Swain also gave a talk on "Sportsmanship" to the young men and boys' classes at the Broadway Baptist Church School on Oct. 26.

Professor Carl W. Miller of the Physics Department who is on sabbatic leave, is spending the year in Germany.

Six members of the faculty of the Division of Engineering attended the fall meeting of the New England Section of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, held at Dartmouth on Nov. 1. They were Professors A. E. Watson, James A. Hall, Frederick N. Tompkins, Samuel J. Berard, Paul N. Kistler, and E. J. McGuire, instructor. The program was in charge of Professor Hall, who is secretary of the section, and Dean Paul Cloke of the University of Maine.

Professor Leonard Carmichael of the Department of Psychology has the sympathy of his fellow members on the faculty in the loss of his mother, Mrs. Emily Leonard Carmichael, who died at her home, Mt. Airy, Pa., on Oct. 16. Mrs. Carmichael, a graduate of Wellesley, and a student of psychology under Professor Ladd at Yale, had been head of the Bureau of Recreation, Department of Public Welfare, Philadelphia, for six years.

In the October number of the Bulletin of the Rhode Island Library Association there was a splendid tribute by the late William E. Foster, '73, to the work done by Harry Lyman Koopman, librarian emeritus, in his 37 years at Brown.

Professor Emeritus Walter G. Everett has made addresses at several colleges in recent months. On Nov. 19 he was the guest of the Society of Optimates, honor society of Long Island University, and among his auditors were Brown alumni of Brooklyn who had been specially invited to the meeting. Dr. Gregory D. Walcott, '97, presided.

Professor Harold A. Phelps of the Department of Social and Political Science will read a paper on "Conflict in the Administration of Social Service" at the joint section of the National Community Center Association and the American Sociological Society to be held in Cleveland during the Christmas recess. Professor Phelps spoke before the New England Regional Conference of Family Welfare Societies in Boston, Oct. 31, on the topic, "Unemployment as a Problem of Family Welfare Societies."

Professor Charles W. Brown's paper, "Engineering Seismology in Japan," given before the Eastern Section of the Seismological Society of America at the 1930 meeting held in Washington, May 5 and 6, has been reprinted in the proceedings of the meeting. The paper has notes and comment by Professor R. R. Martell, '12, of the California Institute of Technology.

Professor Benjamin C. Clough of the Department of Greek and Latin Classics spoke before the annual meeting of the Connecticut Section, New England Classical Association, in Hartford, Conn., on "A Walk in Rome."

Rev. William James Batt, D. D., oldest alumnus of Brown, died at his home in West Concord, Mass., on Nov. 2, 1930. He had been ill for some months, but had maintained his interest in the ministry and in his prison work up to the time of his death. He was born in Fall River, Mass., Oct. 5, 1834, the son of Richard W. and Laura (Bliss) Batt. He came to Brown from the Fall River High School and, after graduation, entered the Andover Theological School, where he received his B. D. degree in 1858. Ordained at the Congregational Church, Stoneham, Mass., Sept. 29, 1859, he was pastor of that church for two years and again from 1875 to 1885. He also served churches in Bedford and Leominster, Mass. In 1885 he became chaplain of the Massachusetts State Reformatory and continued in this position until 1910. He retired with the title of Chaplain Emeritus but his work for the institution went steadily on. He was the author of "Prisons at Home and Abroad," secretary, president and president emeritus of the National Chaplains' Association, corresponding secretary of the Ministers' Union, a trustee of Lawrence Academy, an organizer of the West Concord Union Church, founder of the West Concord Village Improvement Society, editor of "Our Paper," the Reformatory publication, and delegate on two occasions to the International Prison Congress held abroad. He belonged to Phi Beta Kappa, was an honorary member of the W. C. T. U., and with his cousin, Professor Emeritus Wilfred H. Munro, '70, was prominent in the "Fifty Years Plus" reunions which have been part of Brown Commencement proceedings in recent years. One has characterized him truly as a "gentleman of the old school, who lived the religion that he preached, a loyal and faithful alumnus." It was pleasing to many alumni when announcement was made last June that Dr. Batt would receive an honorary D. D. from Alma Mater. He was married Oct. 5, 1859, to Miss Mary Durfee Davol of Fall River. He is survived by a son, William M. Batt, a daughter, Miss Almira M. Batt, with whom he lived, six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Joshua Melancthon Addeman, veteran of the Civil War and banker, died in Thompson, Conn., Oct. 13, 1930, after a week's illness. He was born in Bay of Islands, New Zealand, Nov. 15, 1840, the son of Thomas and Mary (Fligg) Addeman. He came to Providence as a boy of four, prepared in the Providence schools, and, just before his graduation from Brown, enlisted in the Tenth Rhode Island Volunteers. He came home from the front for Commencement and gave the Class Day oration in uniform. He re-enlisted with the Fourteenth Heavy Artillery and served until October, 1865, when he was honorably discharged with the rank of lieutenant. During his service he was a special correspondent of the Providence Journal and his letters home attracted much attention in Rhode Island. On his return to civilian life he took up the study of law and won admission to the Rhode Island bar in 1867. He was clerk of the Providence City Council for several years and then Secretary of State for Rhode Island, an office which he held for 14 years. He was a member of the commission to revise the Rhode Island statutes in 1880. He left public life in 1887 to become treasurer of the Industrial Trust Company, of which he was a vice president at the time of his death. He was one of the oldest Masons in the United States, having been raised in What Cheer Lodge, Providence, in 1867. He was a former president of the Rhode Island Lyceum, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Rhode Island Historical Society and an honorary member of the Society of the Cincinnati. He also was a communicant of Grace Church. Addeman was married Oct. 25, 1872, to Louise Waterman Winsor, who survives him, together with two daughters, Mrs. Dexter Elliott of Thompson, Conn., and Mrs. Frederick L. Jenckes of Providence.

William Wilberforce Collins died at the home of his son-in-law, Rev. Egbert Charles Macklin, Jamaica, N. Y., on Oct. 22, 1930. Until his retirement in 1920 he had followed the general practice of engineering and had traveled extensively in the United States and other countries. He had charge of erecting plants and machinery for mining, crushing, stamping and smelting gold, silver and copper, and also did much work of a hydraulic character. "The finest part of my Brown course, as I look back upon it," he wrote some years ago, "was in the men who, as professors, made such a vivid personal impression upon me that it has been a daily inspiration ever since—men like Lincoln, Harkness, S. S. Green, Diman, Bancroft, and others, who justly made the college on the Hill famous." Collins was born in Troy, N. Y., Oct. 6, 1852, the son of James P. and Mary Ann (Glendinning) Collins. He came to Brown from the Troy High School, studied mechanical engineering and went to work for the Collins Turbine Machine Co., Norwich, Conn., after graduation. His last active work was done as erecting superintendent with Ernest Scott & Co., Fall River, Mass. He was married Dec. 15, 1880, to Alice I. Griswold, who survives him, together with a daughter, Mrs. Macklin, Pembroke, '12, and two sons.

William A. Francis has gone to Florida for the winter. His address is Box 907, Bradenton.

Dr. W. Albert Buxton, former minister and educator, whose failing sight compelled his complete retirement several years ago, died suddenly in Los Angeles, Calif., where he had been living with his son, Carey Morgan Buxton, on Aug. 24, 1930. He was born in Londonderry, Vt., June 16, 1861, the son of Stephen A. and Laura (Haynes) Buxton. He came to Brown from Leland and Gray Seminary, Townshend, Vt., where he was valedictorian of his class, and after graduation studied at Harvard, from which he received an A. M. in 1886, at Bonn and Heidelberg and at Bethany College, Kansas, which awarded him a Ph. D., in 1907. An ardent, devoted leader in the Disciples of Christ, he was pastor of churches in this denomination in Hutchinson, Kan., Fairbury, Neb., Norfolk, Va., Centralia, Wash., Lockhart, Tex., and other places. He was president of Northwest Christian College, Excelsior, Minn., and Dexter, Mo., Christian College, Chancellor of what is now Texas Christian University, Waco, and Dean of the Bible College, Canton, Mo. He was a national director of the home and foreign missionary societies of his church and one-time leader of the Christian Ministerial Associations in Nebraska and Virginia. He received the honorary degrees of LL. D. from Milligan College in 1905 and Sc. D. from Southeastern Christian University in 1922. He had the reputation of being an expert linguist; he was also a student of the life of Adoniram Judson, 1807, and he gathered material for a biography of Judson that he never finished. He was twice married, first to Miss May Damuth, who died, and second, to Miss Teresa Strom. His fraternity was Delta Upsilon.

Rev. Dr. Clarence M. Gallup, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, Providence, announced at the annual Parish Social on Oct. 30 that he would retire from the pastorate of that church on Feb. 19, 1931, the 20th anniversary of the commencement of his pastorate there. During this pastorate the church has moved from the central part of the city to the residential East Side, a new monumental edifice has been erected, a large body of new members has been recruited, the budget of the church has been greatly enlarged and the parish work thoroughly reorganized. Dr. Gallup expressed his appreciation of the friendships that had been made and the co-operation that had been received in meeting the problems of the church. He expects to remain in Providence and to engage in denominational and literary work. He has urged the church to search for a pastor at once, in order that, if possible, there may be no interim between the present and ensuing pastorates.

George C. Wing, Jr.'s, father died in Auburn, Me., Nov. 11, at the age of 83. Judge Wing, Sr., according to the press despatches, was "a leader in the political, business and financial life of the city and State for 60 years." He held several State offices and was chairman of the Republican delegation from Maine at the convention in 1881 which nominated James G. Blaine for President of the United States.

Mrs. Arthur O. Pritchard died in Long Beach, Calif., on Oct. 12, 1930, after a long illness. She was the daughter of the late Dr. Josephus H. and Frances M. (Forst) Gunning of New York. Besides her husband, who is pastor of the First Congregational Church, Sierra Madre, Calif., she is survived by a son, Arthur O. Pritchard, Jr., a brother and a sister. Mrs. Pritchard was baptized as a girl by the late President Faunce when he was pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York.

The Woodbridge, N. J., Independent, in an editorial on Oct. 17, 1930, the first anniversary of the death of Ernest H. Boynton, said that the children playing in the new park at Woodbridge were too young to think of the man who "gave of his worldly goods and of his time to make his dreams come true. For Ernest Boynton did yeoman work in the park project. From abroad he gathered numbers of rare trees for planting in the park, and gave them to the township. Today they are flourishing, their beauty remarked by all visitors. . . . The children play in the park. Perhaps he watches—somewhere—and smiles. After all, who knows?"

Capt. James S. Howes, member of the class in our Freshman year, mariner and adventurer, died in Pawtucket, R. I., on Oct. 28, 1930. He was in command of the steamship Arcturus at the time in 1925 that the William Beebe expedition sailed from New York to explore the mysteries of the Sargasso Sea. A native of South Dennis, Mass., Howes was a graduate of the Falmouth, Mass., High School. He left Brown to go to sea and, after serving on the nautical school ship Enterprise, he entered the coastwise merchant service. During the World War he served in the United States Naval Reserve as a commissioned officer. Since the war he had been in command of various vessels.

A delightful letter from Leon A. Drury last month indicated that Drury has been keeping close track of the Brown football squad during the fall. He was planning at the time to be on deck for the Columbia and Colgate games. He concluded: "When I'm thinking of football I'm not worrying about anything else."

Edward J. McCaffrey, member of the Board of Police Commissioners, Providence, since 1913, died at his home in Providence on Nov. 2, after a short illness. "He gave the city faithful and honest service," said former Mayor Joseph H. Gainer, and other officials expressed themselves similarly. McCaffrey was born in County Roscommon, Ireland, Nov. 28, 1877, the son of James and Elizabeth (McDermott) McCaffrey. He entered Brown from the Providence High School and after graduation went into business as a manufacturing chemist. He became manager, first of the Hope Chemical Company and then of the What Cheer Chemical Company. He showed early interest in political and civic affairs and served as a member of the Providence School Committee. Mayor Gainer named him Police Commissioner in 1913, and his earnest work in that position won his reappointments for each successive term since his first one. He was a member of St. Sebastian's Church, the Knights of Columbus, the Catholic Club, the Metacomet Golf Club, the Old Town Club and Phi Kappa. He was married Nov. 10, 1909, to Mary E. Morrissey of Milton, Mass., who survives him, together with two daughters, Elizabeth G. and Mary Virginia McCaffrey, and a son, Edward J. McCaffrey, Jr. He also leaves three brothers and two sisters.

Norman S. Case was reelected governor of Rhode Island last month by a plurality of approximately 3,800 votes. The Democrats were going strong and Theodore Francis Green, '87, his opponent, gave Norman a hearty run for honors. Norman's personality and his brief, clearcut speeches carried him far during the campaign.

George Taylor, all the way from Stamford, N. Y., was at the Brown-Columbia game. George hasn't been in Providence in a moon's age, and it was pleasant to see him and talk with him once more.

1909

Chauncey Wheeler gave an address on the opportunities offered by the profession of law from Station WEAN, Providence, on Oct. 19.

Charles Edward Havens, member of the class for three years, died suddenly in Providence on Oct. 20, 1930. He was the son of Charles C. and Loucitty Havens of Longmeadow, R. I. After he left college he went into the wholesale oyster business with his father at Longmeadow and continued in it until the World War. From 1918 to 1920 he was clerk in a broker's office; since 1920 he had been a part owner of the Ray Mfg. Company, a jewelry concern. He is survived by a widow, who was Martha D. Babbitt, and a daughter.

George Boas's new book, "Our New Ways of Thinking," was published recently by Harper & Brothers. A brief summary has described it as "an attempt to show the change in ethics, art, aesthetics and scientific and social thought that characterizes modern culture."

Rabbi Louis L. Newman of the Temple Rodeph Shalom, New York, was the principal speaker at the ninth annual dinner of the Men's Club of Temple Beth-El at the Narragansett Hotel, Providence, Nov. 13. His subject was: "Are we Facing a New Human Era?"

Benjamin W. McLyman, Republican candidate, won election as Attorney General of Rhode Island last month after a bitter and somewhat personal campaign with John P. Hartigan, too, as his opponent.

Eddie Eays, baseball player and league manager, whose strong left arm was a big help in Brown baseball in the days before the World War, has been elected to the Providence City Council from the Third Ward. It is Eddie's first venture into politics.

Joseph J. Fraga has returned to Cuba, where he has resumed his work as electrical engineer with the Cespedes Sugar Co., Cespedes, Province of Canaguey.

Hugh Ba'n puts himself down as construction manager with the Plymouth Quarries, Inc., Savings Bank Bldg., East Weymouth, Mass. Hugh is living on Cottage Street, Hingham, Mass.

Clarence DeW. Herreshoff is a draftsman with the New York Shipbuilding Company, Camden, N. J. He makes his home in the Baird Apartments, Essex Avenue, Narberth, Pa.

1918

Cy Flanders has resigned as president of the Brown Club of Hartford and has also given up all of his outside activities in Windsor Locks and Hartford because "it's got to be business before pleasure now, and when business conditions are as they are, Bradstreet's work is at the peak." In another column we report the arrival of Cy's fourth son, John Edward Flanders, Brown class of 1948. How many in the class can match or approach Cy's record as a father?

1919

The Long Beach, Calif., Press-Telegram of Oct. 11 had an article, with a picture, telling all about William A. Goggin, who has entered upon his sixth year as principal of the Bennett elementary school in Long Beach. "Golf and handball are Mr. Goggin's favorite sports," said the article. "He is a member of the Optimists Club and the After-Dinner Speaking Club. Mr. Goggin has studied at summer sessions at Columbia University and the University of California, the latter advancing him toward a doctor's degree in education."

1921

Chris Cuddeback, in asking that we change his address to 2755 Reservoir Avenue, New York, added that he "looks forward with a great deal of interest to the arrival of the Alumni Monthly, and therefore cannot afford to risk the postal authorities not forwarding it." Chris is an executive officer of the Sheffield Farms Company, Inc., with his offices at 524-528 West 57th Street, New York.

Harold A. Dodge tells us that his present house address is 84 Fairview Ave., Port Washington, N. Y.

Reg Pease, sound engineer with the Bell Laboratories, was a campus visitor during the time that he was in Providence late in October to assist in a demonstration of "modern marvels of electrical witchcraft," under the auspices of the Providence Engineering Society and the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company. It's a good show that Reg helps to put on and if you ever get a chance to see it, don't miss it.

Dr. Roger W. Nelson is practicing medicine at 1024 Park Ave., New York.

Ray Farrell, report has it, has been rusticiating in Pawtucket since he pulled stakes in Wall Street, where he worked for several brokerage houses during the past five years. Ray is more than willing to let stocks and bonds worry along hereafter if he can find a place for himself in some organization which does business in foreign fields.

1923

Robert H. Spellman is a counselor at law at 136 William St., New York. Bob put in many a hard evening of study in order to get his law degree, and we wish him all kinds of success—indeed, we hope he wins at law as he used to win at wrestling.

Dwight K. Bartlett, Jr., has changed his address from Warehouse Point, Conn., to 37 Lindbergh Ave., Holyoke, Mass.

Herbert M. Hofford, assistant professor of journalism at Penn State, wrote not long ago: "We have nearly three hundred students registered in eight journalism courses, and the ones with whom I deal seem singularly conscientious for college students." Hofford asked to be remembered to some of his old associates and that his mail be sent to 522 S. Pugh St., State College, Pa.

Millard T. Gaskill is feeling fit physically again after a long siege in which he has undergone several operations. He was an Alumni Office caller recently and he said that he expected to return to work with the W. T. Grant Company the first of the year.

Dr. Walter F. Becket, practicing physician and surgeon in Toledo, O., was in Providence late in October, visiting relatives. He plans to settle in Providence next year, we understand.

H. R. (Diz) and Mrs. Faulkner are at home at 4953 McPherson Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

E. H. Hewitson has left Rochester, N. Y., he writes, and is at present getting his mail at 270 Union Ave., Rutherford, N. J.

E. John Lowmes has been elected a member of the Board of Governors of the University Club, Providence.

Ray Miller is field agent with the Dutch Shell Oil Co. Since Ray was last in the neighborhood of College Hill he has been down in South America, where he looked Rio over, and parts of Venezuela (most of which ooze oil) and also caught glimpses of the West Indies on his way home.

Dave Goddard's new house address is 902 Asylum Ave., Hartford, Conn. Dave is still on the job with the Travelers Insurance Company.

Quentin, alias Red, Reynolds, sports writer with the New York Evening World, is breaking into Judge occasionally, we note. We suppose he will be shooting next at The American Mercury, or possibly the Ladies' Home Journal.

John Spellman, after playing football all fall with the Providence Steam Roller, has returned to the professional wrestling game, in the pursuit of which he has seen a great deal of the United States in the past two years.

J. D. Fidler is back on the Hill this academic year as an instructor in the English Department.

Dr. Harry S. N. Greene, former member of the class, is instructor in pathology at McGill University, Montreal, from which he received his medical degree last June.

Don Manchester writes that his new address is 1437 5th Street, Santa Monica, Calif.

A good letter from Johnnie Pohlman not long ago contained the news that Johnnie is still strictly on the job with the Dwight Building Co., New Haven, Conn., and is ready any time to discuss construction work of a high-grade nature. Johnnie agrees that "Yale had its usual luck" is defeating Brown this year.

We are greatly obliged to Harry Hoffman for the tip-off about Heinie Welch's wedding, which we report in another column. Harry entertained the wedding party at the Cleveland Athletic Club, and he noted the fact that "Heinie is the second Alpha Tau Omega boy I've helped get married, Marvin Bower being the other." Harry admitted that he was working hard in spite of the depression and confided that he hoped to go to the Brown-Syracuse game at Syracuse.

Phil Voelker is technical assistant to the general manager of the Jewell Export Filter Co., manufacturer of municipal filtering plants, and with Mrs. Voelker and Ellen Louisa Voelker, now going on three years, lives in Blackstone, Mass.

Russ Eason, with the Liberty Mutual Insurance Company in Philadelphia, has changed his address to 177 E. Essex Ave., Lansdowne, Pa.

Guy Hamilton is with Lamson Bros. & Co., 2 Broadway, New York, and lives at 30-88 30th Street, Long Island.

Paul Burhoe is working for the New England Physician-Dentist Service Corporation, with his office at 737 Industrial Trust Bldg., Providence.

F. A. (Abbey) Brown writes that his correct mailing address is 307 N. Michigan Ave., Room 2100, Chicago, Ill., but he fails to tell us exactly what he is doing these days.

Hal Broda lived some of his football days over again as he sat in the stands at the Brown-Columbia game and watched the two teams battle in the rain and the mud. Hal came from Canton, O., to New York on insur-

Their words have wings as swift as light

An Advertisement of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company

WE LIVE and work as no other people have ever done. Our activities are pitched to the swiftness of the instantaneous age.

Whatever happens, wherever it happens and however it may affect you, you may know it immediately over the wires or the channels of the air that carry men's words with the speed of light. Business and social life are free from the restrictions of time and distance—for practically any one, anywhere, may at any time speak with any one, anywhere else.

The widespread and co-ordinated interests of the nation depend upon an intercourse that less than sixty years ago was not possible in a single community. This is the task of the telephone wires and cables of the Bell Telephone System—to make a single community of our vast, busy continent wherein a man in Los Angeles may talk with another in Baltimore or a friend in Europe as readily as with his neighbor.

It is the work of the Bell Telephone System to enable friends, families and business associates to speak clearly and immediately with one another, wherever they may be. Its service is as helpful and accessible on a village street as in the largest cities.

To match the growing sweep and complexity of life in this country, to prepare the way for new accomplishments, the Bell System is constantly adding to its equipment and bettering its service.

To this end, its construction program for 1930 has been the largest in its history. This System at all times accepts its responsibility to forward the development and well-being of the nation.

Pembroke College

(Undergraduate News by Doris Sahl, '33)

Komians

Komians' first presentations of the current season were three plays given in Alumnae Hall on Friday and Saturday evenings, November 21 and 22. "Op-O-Me-Thumb," "The Conflict" and Anatole France's "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" were well received by appreciative audiences. Plans for winter and spring productions have been completed and include "Why the Chimes Rang," to be given at the Christmas Chapel Service, December 18, A. A. Milne's "The Ivory Door," to be given in March, and a play for Masque in May. Tickets entitling holders to the presentations mentioned above and to the interesting discussions of dramatic interest by Professors Brown and Crosby and others at Komians' meetings are offered to people connected with the University at $2.50, and to others at $4.00. Subscriptions may be sent to Muriel Barnes, business manager, at 118 Meeting Street, or to any Komians member.

Pembroke League of Women Voters

This is the newest college organization at Pembroke, formed since the opening of the semester. The first business meeting, held on October 22, resulted in the election of Mary Kernan, '32, as chairman, M. Campbell, '33, vice chairman and secretary-treasurer, and Hester Hastings as senior counselor. At the present time the league is especially interested in Child Welfare, a subject discussed by Dr. Alice B. Eliot, '00, state chairman of the Department of Child Welfare of the Rhode Island League of Women Voters, who attended the October meeting. Miss Virginia Heal was also present.

Brownie Association

Brownie Association presented its first all-college dance of the season at Alumnae Hall, on Friday, November 7. The affair was well managed and especially well attended. Dean Morriss, Miss Paddock, Miss Boyd, and Mrs. Godding were patronesses.

Vocational Guidance Committee

The committee's program for this year has been worked out with the assistance of Miss Moorar and includes Vocational Chapel Speakers, Professors' Suppers, and Departmental Teas. The Professors' Suppers will be given in the departments of History, Biology and English, for all students interested.

El Club Espagnol

Meetings have been held and the following women officers elected for the coming year: Eleanor Green, '31, president; Dorothy Gobeille, '32, chairman of refreshment committee; Luella Holmes, '32, chairman of social committee.

Junior Dance

The first major social function of the Pembroke year was the Junior Informal given in October. The class has already started working on plans for the Prom.

Honors Day

President Katherine Blunt of Connecticut College was the speaker at the Honors Day Exercises held the morning of October 31. Her subject was the history of women's education and its present problems. Before her address Dean Morriss read the names of the honor students, whom she congratulated, and of those who had won fellowships. Holders of Pembroke and Andrews Scholarships were named as well as the new members of the honorary societies, the winners of the entrance premiums, and of preliminary and final honors.

Art

Students interested in art have been invited to take advantage of the Jug Art Course, with particular reference to commercial illustration and comedy, given by Professor Will Taylor and Everett Nelson. The course is given at the Art Department Studio, 125 George Street. The cost of the course is being shared partially by the Jug, making the expense to the student only $1.00 for two hours of instruction.

Sports

Under the leadership of Miss Bessie Rudd, the new head of the Physical Education Department, a hockey team has been organized and has already begun competing with outside teams. The captain is Miss Albina Osipowich, our Olympic swimmer, who has made world records in swimming.

Brown Alumnae

Christmas Party

The annual Christmas Party of the Alumnae Association will be held in the Crystal Room of Alumnae Hall on Saturday evening, December 27th, at seven-thirty. There is to be music by the Brown Club Ensemble and Miss Nancy Dyer will speak. Following the entertainment there will be refreshments in the Commons Room. The Alumnae are invited to come and renew old friendships and make new ones.

Alumnae Clubs

The Brown Alumnae Club of Boston was the guest of Ada Rogers Case (Mrs. H. E.) at her home in Auburndale on November 1st. Mrs. Gertrude Allen McConnell, executive secretary of the Alumnae Association, brought news of the college, gave a brief summary of the report which the Survey Committee made to the Corporation of the University in October, and explained the Alumnae Fund, which was adopted in June by the Alumnae Association. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Annie Fisher Seamans (Mrs. R.) and Elizabeth Mayo. Dean Morris is to be the guest of the Club at a luncheon on January 17th. Plans have also been made for a rummage sale, a theatre party, a bridge party, a tea which will be at the home of Jessie Munroe Williams (Mrs. J. H.) in Cambridge and the annual outing which will be held at the home of Mary Orswell Peterson (Mrs. J. A.) in Hingham. Corresponding secretary: Elizabeth Louise Mayo, 73 Elm Road, Newtonville, Mass.

The Brown Alumnae Club of Cleveland was entertained at the home of Polly Presbrey McCarthy (Mrs. J. H.) on Wednesday evening, Oct. 29. Miss Eva A. Mooar, who had been attending the Personnel Conference at Oberlin College, was the guest of honor. Besides bringing news of the College, Miss Mooar explained the work of her Department of Admissions and Personnel. Corresponding secretary: Mrs. Kern Metzger, 2109 Stillman Road, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

The Brown Alumnae Club of New York held its first meeting of the year on October 18th at the Hotel Wentworth and on November 9th attended a tea and musicale at Sarah Lawrence Junior College, at which former Dean Anne Emery Allinson was the guest of honor. Corresponding secretary: Virginia Wright, 669 68th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Brown Alumnae Club of Pennsylvania met at the home of the President, Florence B. Beitenman, at Reiffon on October 18th. Following the talk by Miss Mooar, who was the guest of honor, there was much discussion concerning the types of girls who make good college material, the personnel work done with them at College, the nature and desirability of placement service, and the present day development of the professional school. Elizabeth Peckham Kinder (Mrs. Ralph) submitted a report of the June meeting of the Alumnae Association. The club voted to establish a savings fund and to pay part of the expenses of the delegate to the meetings of the Alumnae Council in February. Corresponding secretary: Mildred E. Runyeon, 420 South 20th St., Reading, Penn.

The Brown Alumnae Club of Pittsburgh was entertained by Josephine Sackett Johansson (Mrs. K. W.) at her home on October 25th. Miss Mooar was the guest of the club. Although the numbers are limited, an enthusiastic meeting was held. Corresponding secretary: Mary McDonough, 2212 Fairland Avenue, Overbrook, Pittsburgh, Penn.

The Brown Alumnae Club of Providence held an enthusiastic supper meeting in Alumnae Hall on November 17th, followed by an interesting talk on English politics by Miss Marion Hurford, of Manchester, England, who has exchanged positions for this year with Cecile L. McInnis, '24. The afternoon and evening reading groups of the club report an increased attendance and the meetings are proving very popular. Secretary: Mrs. Joseph H. Cull, 270 Blackstone Boulevard, Providence, R. I.

Death of Mrs. Caverly

1906—Marion Austin Caverly, wife of Brainard E. Caverly, died on October 31, 1930, at the Rhode Island Hospital, where she had been for the past five weeks. Mrs. Caverly was the daughter of Charles William Austin and Hannah Babcock Austin and was born in Westerly, R. I. She prepared for college at the Westerly High School and entered Brown in 1902. After graduating she taught in both the Westerly and Orange High Schools. Mrs. Caverly was a member of the Elmwood Women's Club and the Rochambeau-Summit Avenue Parent-Teacher Association. In addition to her husband, she is survived by three children, Brainard E. Caverly, Jr., 15, Hannah Jeannette Caverly, 12, and Charles Nolton Caverly, 8.

Engagements
